Historical note

After his early art education in Cincinnati, Ohio, Daniel Garber moved to Pennsylvania, eventually settling in the New Hope and Lumberville area of Bucks County, where he painted light-filled landscapes and figure compositions for over four decades.

From 1900 to 1905 he studied at the Pennsylvania Academy, winning the Cresson Travel Scholarship in 1905, and using the funds to begin a two-year sojourn in Europe. Returning to Pennsylvania, he became one of the leading figures of the New Hope group of painters, the artists now sometimes called the Pennsylvania Impressionists. Wooded hillsides seen from a distance, solitary trees, and the huge Lumberville quarry were some of his favorite subjects. Garber was also an accomplished etcher. In 1901 he married Mary ("May") Franklin, a fellow Academy student. Their two children, Tanis, born 1906, and John, born 1910, figured prominently in many of his figure paintings.

In 1909, when he was not yet thirty, Garber was awarded the prestigious Hallgarten Prize from the National Academy of Design, and in 1919 he won the Temple Gold Medal from the Pennsylvania Academy. His work was regularly accepted into the major American juried exhibitions, winning numerous prizes and finding places in both private collections and museums. Garber taught at the Pennsylvania Academy for forty-two years, influencing scores of students with his simple teaching methods and gentle demeanor.

Scope and Contents note

The Garber papers are extensive and include correspondence, clipping scrapbooks, and registers of artwork produced. In addition there are notebooks, loose clippings, photographs of Garber and members of his family, artwork by Garber, printed matter owned by Garber, estate settlement papers, and memorabilia.

The acquisition also included some correspondence to and from Garber's wife, and smaller amounts of correspondence between other family members such as letters exchanged between Garber's children. This material might more properly be designated as the Garber Family Papers, but its quantity is small enough to include with the Garber papers and many of the items mention Garber. In addition, the gift contained the papers of Garber's son John Franklin Garber, which are described in a separate finding aid.

A small collection of pencil sketches by DG was also received and transferred to the museum collection.

Daniel Garber papers (MS.023)

From about the mid 1990s, the material in the 2006 gift was in the hands of Lance Humphries, author of the Daniel Garber catalogue raisonné (Hollis Taggart Galleries, 2006). At the conclusion of the publication project the materials were donated to the Academy by Garber's granddaughters. Hollis Taggart Galleries may eventually donate its research files, compiled while the publication was being prepared by Mr. Humphries.

Several important items in the 2006 gift of Garber's papers were lent to the Academy for photocopying by John Garber, in 1980. These photocopies were microfilmed by the Archives of American Art, on reel 3657.

Related materials in the Academy archives, apart from the major acquisition of 2006, include three letters from Garber's 1905 Cresson Travel Scholarship trip; photographs of the artist; administrative correspondence regarding his teaching duties or submission of work to the annual exhibitions; jury service; and clippings (both in the archives and the Academy library). There are also oral history interviews with family and former students, collected in preparation for the Academy's 1980 Garber exhibition, and photographs of the 1945 and 1980 Garber exhibitions.

Provenance note

Daniel Garber papers (MS.023)

The papers were the gift of Daniel Garber's granddaughters (the children of John Garber), Dana Garber Applestein and Tanis Garber-Shaw in 2006. The 1940 letter to Glenna Latimer, was a 1990 gift of Mrs. Julia Bristow, who also gave Garber's portrait of Glenna Latimer to the museum collection.

The official credit line for the 2006 gift is: "Gift of Dana Garber Applestein and Tanis Garber-Shaw, in memory of their grandfather, Daniel Garber."

The collection also contains photocopies of other DG correspondence, secured for the 2006 catalogue raisonné, by Hollis Taggart Galleries. This material includes copies of correspondence from DG to his cousin Charles Garber; Albert Rosenthal; Emily Sartain; and Richard Wedderspoon. There are also copies of DG correspondence with the Cincinnati Art Museum.

printed book with six illustrations by DG. The book is A Little Missionary by Amanda M. Douglas (Philadelphia: Henry Altemus Company, 1904). This item was acquired by the Hollis Taggart Galleries. It was purchased during the research phase of the catalogue raisonné project (see entry D75 for details.) It is stored with the DG papers in the Academy archives.  A second book illustrated by DG was also received with the artist's papers. This work, Sylvie: Souvenirs du Valois , Translated from Gérard de Nerval by Lucie Page (Portland, Maine: Thomas B. Mosher, 1896), is a small, 86 page, printed book, with nine original pen and ink illustrations drawn by DG in London in 1905. Because it contains original drawings it was transferred to the museum drawings collection. In the Daniel Garber catalogue raisonné the entry for this item is D67.		5	1
