Dear John:

It has been sometime since I was in New York City in your studio and I trust this photograph will show you how your statuary is placed in the Steinberg garden in St. Louis.

Do you have a group of figures, particularly of small children, that might be suitable on a medium height pedestal, say two to three feet high, that could sit in the center of a teardrop shaped flower garden to be seen from all sides but on axis with two walks entering the garden area?

I am enclosing a plan of the garden so that you can more clearly picture the setup.

Looking forward to hearing from you, and with best personal regards.

Sincerely yours

STUART M. MERTZ
