Dear Виска,
I wish I had missed you so very much and you a Million Ways. The trip has been most interesting. But dear as you know the most important thing is missing and that is you. Our landing in Moscow was safe and we have been busy as little bees going to Museums, Theatres, visiting Art Studios, Planning and etc. etc.

The people are very hospitable, and lots of fun. We have just about visited every Museum here (Leningrad and Moscow). Last night we visited the first Sculptor Studio. Of course the painters are dominating the whole show. Yes, I do try part quite well.

There's one thing that has struck me and seems quite important. The people are quite anxious to know one another.

There are so many things that I would like to write about but as since every moment minute has been scheduled. Now I find myself rushing trying to get a note to you and getting ready for the Ball.

Forgive all this scuffling. What I really want to say is that I love you very much, Buckle Shanny.

Love John.

How very to put
Thank you to them
