Dear John and Richards:

Thank you two for that very warm letter of November 16th. What fun it would be to drop in on you two, especially before you head for Pennsylvania and the installation of that sculpture project, but unfortunately I fear that I will not get back to New York before the first of the year.

I am so pleased that you saw the paintings at the gallery, as well as the one at the Whitney -- and that you liked them.

I did not know until just recently that Streibert had been replaced. In yesterday's Journal there was an article by the editor, James Saxon Childers, about Larsen. Evidently Childers knew Lawman because the editorial was very warm in its praise. I have had nothing from Peel in regard to the Streibert meeting -- now the reasons are clearly evident. So, at this writing I have no idea when I will have any of this. Maybe Peel will be more anxious for me to contact Larsen than he was for me to contact Streibert.

We hope you will have the fattest Thanksgiving turkey you have ever had and that it will be a glorious day for both of you.

Very best wishes.

Sincerely yours,

Lamar Dodd
