

Sally Fairweather

Shirley G. Hardin

FAIRWEATHER-GARNETT GALLERY

1012 Kewanee Avenue, Evanston, Illinois • University 4-8767

October 13, 1964

Mr. John Rhoden
285 8th Avenue
New York, N.Y.

Dear Mr. Rhoden:

I enjoyed so much meeting you and your wife, and it was pleasant having tea with you. I was, of course, sorry not to have been able to see your recent work, but we are looking forward to the moment we hear of its arrival.

In discussing with Mrs. Hardin our present plans for a November 14th opening, I recalled the lengthy delay in arrival of the Gower shipment, and realizing that we would have to start immediately on preparations for a catalogue, we are fearful that we would never be able to organize the show for November. We want to do a good job on catalogue and publicity, so we feel we should advance the exhibition date to the middle of January.

We look forward to having photographs of this shipment as soon as you are in possession of duplicates, and also the picture of you at the Rome exhibition.

We will, of course, need complete biographical data and any other information which will be useful to us or newsworthy.

Let us hear from you as soon as you can.

Sincerely,

Sally Fairweather
Sally Fairweather

SHP/su