Dear John:

In accordance with the instructions that we received when we were in Mr. Colwell's office relative to the purchase of gifts for the Russians, I am sending to you bills totaling $37.33. All of these have been properly marked "Paid". Some, but not all, are in duplicate. It is my understanding that you will turn these over to Mr. Colwell, receive the reimbursement for these expenditures, and forward this amount to me. I hope it doesn't involve you on finances too much.

For your information, we have collected some perfectly excellent records, I have ball point pens with plenty of cartridges; Waterman pens with cartridges; beautiful sketch books; cigarette lighters; some ladies' and gentlemen's hosiery; quite a number of paper-back books carefully chosen by members of our American Literature Department; and other minor items. I also have photographs and color reproductions of my own work, not to mention the slides of American Art that are now being mounted.

I know that you are terribly busy. I am literally swamped, but I am looking forward with genuine anticipation to seeing all of you in Copenhagen on the 16th.

With kindest regards,

Cordially,

Lamar Dodd
