President's Letter

The 200th Anniversary Year was a remarkable success for the Pennsylvania Academy. It began with the great January 8th Gala (it seems to me as if it was only last week), when over a thousand guests enjoyed the breathtaking spaces in our new Samuel M. V. Hamilton Building, designed by Dagit Saylor Architects. During the Gala, the gold Medal of Honor was bestowed upon painter Helen Frankenthaler. Uniquely, two other gold medals were bestowed as part of the Anniversary celebration, on Louise Bourgeois and R. B. Kitaj in their homes in New York and Los Angeles, respectively.

Guests were also thrilled by the renovation of the historic galleries, organized by Academy Senior Vice President Kim Sajet, and underwritten by the Richard C. von Hess Foundation, and by In Full View, the largest display of our permanent collection seen in years, not least because of the amount of post-war painting and sculpture we can now show. We unveiled the ground and second floors of the Hamilton Building, showing off the Fisher Brooks Gallery, the Tuttleman Sculpture Gallery and the American Sculpture Study Center (now part-named by the Henry Luce Foundation). The second-floor painting gallery, now the Walter and Leonore Annenberg Gallery, hosted the The Chemistry of Color: The Harold A. and Ann R. Sorgenti Collection of Contemporary African-American Art. The von Hess Foundation also made funds available to restore our splendid painting of George III by Sir Allan Ramsay and Studio, which will hang alongside Gilbert Stuart's Lansdowne Portrait of George Washington, in an instructive display on "two images of government." We also produced a new audio guide for the permanent collection, with contributions from both curatorial staff and faculty. A foretaste of all this excitement was provided by Portfolio, the Academy's marvelous new store managed by Mark DeLelys, which opened in the run-up to Christmas 2004, immediately bringing accolades as one of the best shopping venues in the city.

During the late spring, we held our 200th Anniversary Commencement, a momentous event for the graduating class, with a moving address and tribute to the late Leon Golub by distinguished faculty member Irving Petlin, and a tribute by Kim Sajet to Golub's widow, Nancy Spero. In the summer, we mounted a wonderful showing of treasures from our rarely seen, but remarkable works on paper collection, Light, Line and Color, curated by Bob Cozzolino, and then, at the beginning of the fall semester, the Convocation ceremony celebrated two extraordinary contributors to American art, artist Alex Katz, and art historian William Gerdtz, who each received the Academy's Founders Medal.

We then launched the fall with two spectacular exhibits, In Private Hands: 200 Years of American Painting, curated by Nicolai Cikovsky and Academy Senior Curator Lynn Marsden-Atlas, and Ellen Harvey: Mirror, both of which could be seen during the Women's Board's great USArtists show in October. In Private Hands was one of four catalogues published to celebrate the Anniversary; the others were the Potamkin and Sorgenti collections, and 200 Years of Excellence.

The Board also added some amazing works to the collection in 2005, including splendid paintings by Adolf Gottlieb, Lee Krasner, Jess, Jim Nutt and Robert Ryman, and a number of exciting works by younger emerging artists, purchased out of the newly established contemporary art development fund. We also received a fine Lee Krasner as a gift of the Pollock-Krasner Foundation. Philadelphia hosted national meetings of four arts organizations in honor of the Academy's birthday: the Association of Art Museum Directors, the National Association of Schools of Art and Design, the Association of Independent Colleges of Art and Design, and the Museum Trustees Association.

On the academic front, the enrollment in the MFA program continued to grow, as did the library's digital resources, making it one of the most substantial graduate programs in the country. In November, we entered into a very special exchange relationship with the China Academy of Art in Hangzhou, the oldest, and with the Central Academy in Beijing, one of the two most prestigious art schools in China. We look forward to a very productive partnership, which involving students, faculty and exhibitions.

The year was crowned by our receiving the National Medal of Arts from the President in the Oval Office on November 10th. The first visual arts organization to win the medal since its launch in 1984, we were deeply honored by the recognition bestowed on this was an extraordinary achievement that builds on, well, two hundred years of work by Trustees, faculty, staff, students, volunteers, and supporters like yourselves. What a triumph for Pennsylvania – and indeed special thanks to our Governor Ed Rendell for recommending us for the award! I want to thank everyone who has contributed to the year's exhausting calendar of events, especially to our two co-chairs Tom Pappas and Mark Alderman, and the 200th Director Audrey Schneider, and present and former senior staff Kim Sajet, Jeff Carr, Anne Stassen, Leslie Moody, John Knox, Ka-Msiyara Corbett, John Hewett, and Gene Castellano. Not only did they carry the Anniversary, but also implemented the new performance management system for staff and faculty.

We begin our 201st year with a rich and nuanced show on painting in Chicago, from around 1920 to 1980. Among other pleasures, this exhibition demonstrates the hitherto ignored crossover between the Academy and the Art Institute of Chicago, and between the art cultures of Philadelphia and Chicago. After the Annual Student Exhibition we move onto a major show on the landscapes and portraits Founders' Medallist Alex Katz has produced over many years summering in Maine. All of this as we construct the next three floors of the Hamilton Building - for the Sculpture, Printmaking and Administrative departments – and prepare to leave 1301 Cherry Street, thus realizing a dream of nearly half a century: to be united again in a single campus, as one Academy! As the Convention Center formally begins its development plans, expanding from 13th Street to face us across the Avenue of the Arts, front door to front door, the Pennsylvania Academy is truly in terrific shape for its third century!

Statements of Financial Position

Condensed, June 30, 2005 and 2004

The Academy's financial statements for the fiscal year ending June 30, 2005 received once again an unqualified opinion from its independent accounting firm of Tait Weller & Baker. The fiscal year also featured the first year that the audit was supervised for the Board of Trustees by an Audit Committee of the Board. The Audit Committee has rounded out the financial management team of the Academy to fulfill the goal of accurate, timely and informative financial reporting.

The financial management process at the Academy involves the entire organization, with the annual budget forming the core of setting goals. And, in fact, many significant financial goals were achieved during the 2005 fiscal year. Foremost among those goals was the achievement of positive operating results, prior to depreciation and non-operating items. This positive achievement took in the goal of fully absorbing all operating costs of the new Samuel M.V. Hamilton building, along with its associated debt service costs. These increased costs were met through growth in tuition revenue, support revenue, and the growing success of the Academy's new retail presence in Portfolio as well as its facility rental program. Growth in support revenue was led by events surrounding the 200th Anniversary Celebration, highlighted by the 200th Gala.

An additional financial management goal that was achieved involved the restructuring of the Academy's debt. On August 11, 2004, the Academy borrowed $12,275,000 by issuing tax-exempt Revenue Bonds through the Philadelphia Authority for Industrial Development. These Bonds were issued to pay down $12,000,000 of line of credit debt relating to the Academy's renovation of the Hamilton building, thereby moving this debt from a current liability to a long-term liability, matching the expected long use of the Building.
